Roanoke runs on people who work unusual hours. Nurses and physicians at the big hospitals, railroad crews, manufacturing teams, first responders and restaurant staff all keep the valley moving at times when most people are asleep. When your schedule rotates between days and nights, keeping a clean house can feel impossible. House cleaning in Roanoke for shift workers and busy professionals gives you one less thing to worry about on your days off.

The Happy Housekeepers, a Roanoke Valley company since 1979, makes this easier with a simple policy. Employees are bonded and insured by the company, so customers do not need to be present while their house is cleaned. You can be on shift, asleep in a darkened room upstairs or out running errands, and the crew will still take care of the house.

The standard visit covers the jobs that pile up fastest when you are working long hours. Kitchens get a complete clean-up, bathrooms a total clean-up, carpets are vacuumed and hard floors mopped. Furniture is dusted or polished and window sills, baseboards, blinds and ceiling fans are dusted. Waste baskets are emptied and cobwebs removed so you come home to a reset house.
