Soft Tissue and Whiplash Injury Claims in Midland TX A rear-end tap at a Loop 250 stoplight can look like nothing at the scene. Both drivers step out, glance at the bumpers, trade insurance cards and head home. Then, a day or two later, the neck stiffens, a headache settles behind the eyes and turning to check a blind spot becomes a chore. That delayed pattern is typical of whiplash and other soft tissue injuries, and it's one reason these claims are so often challenged. Here's what happens in the body. When a vehicle is struck from behind, the head snaps backward and then forward faster than the neck muscles can brace. Ligaments, tendons and muscles can stretch or tear. Those injuries rarely show up on a standard X-ray, which is exactly why insurance companies like to downplay them. An adjuster may point to minor property damage, argue that you waited too long to see a doctor or suggest the pain came from something else. Stop-and-go traffic on Loop 250 north, around Big Spring Street and along Andrews Highway produces plenty of these low-speed collisions, and plenty of these arguments.
