Many Roswell subdivisions control tree removal through covenants as well as city rules. Architectural review committees may require approval before a tree comes roswell georgia tree service down, and fines can apply retrospectively. Read the covenant section on landscaping and ask the board in writing. A contractor who ignores HOA process leaves the owner holding the penalty.